Required Textbook: Glen Krutz, American Government 3e (Houston: Openstax, 2019.) <https://openstax.org/details/books/american-government-3e>

Course Description: Government 2305 is an introduction to politics and government of the United States. The purpose of this introduction is to acquire knowledge of the basic principles and practices of the federal government.

This semester we will study the origins and development of the federal government; the political science of the Declaration of Independence and the Federalist Papers; the origin and development of the U.S. Constitution; the idea of constitutionalism, separation of powers and checks and balances; the idea of federalism; the institutions of Congress, the Presidency, the public administration, and the Judiciary; civil rights and civil liberties; public opinion, political parties, and elections; and issues in public policy.

This introductory course will also attempt to understand some of the basic questions and problems encountered by political science and political philosophy. These are philosophical questions that emerge from the study of the specific practices of American politics, and of the laws, policies, and institutions of the federal government. For an introduction to these questions, we will read an essay "In Defense of Politics" by Steven B. Smith and explore the basic concepts of political science.

This is an online course consisting of four (4) Units in which each Unit will be open for approximately four (4) weeks. Each Unit is self-paced, but students should log into D2L Brightspace at least five times a week. They can complete the assigned work at their own most convenient time, but they must remain mindful of the course outline and due dates. Please keep abreast of posted announcements.

Course Requirements

Course Discussion Boards: Discussion Boards represent the interactive component of this course. There are 4 discussion assignments with specific opening dates and closing dates for each. Please be mindful of the closing due dates. The discussions are a way of exchanging information and insight with your fellow students. Your grade will be based on your full and thoughtful participation, and not on the content of your ideas and opinions.

Content from the discussion topics will be on each exam.

For each topic you are required to post 1 initial response to the topic (at a minimum of 300 words). You must also make at least 2 comments to other students' initial responses (at a minimum of 150 words). Points will be deducted for insufficient initial responses, as well as for comments (e.g., "You're right!" "I agree." Are not sufficient comments.) Please write in clear prose, and refrain from using text speech, net speech, and online slang.

DO NOT WAIT until the due date to begin posting. Post throughout the window between the opening dates and closing due dates.

Follow the discussion guidelines posted in the Getting Started section of the course.

Papers: There are 4 short papers (2 pages at a minimum) over a selected topic. Additional information on grading rubric, submission, format, citations, etc. will be provided in the assignment file. Content from the paper topics will be on each exam.

Course Exams: There are 4 Unit Exams. Each exam will cover the required textbook chapter readings, lecture notes, additional readings, and videos/podcasts for that unit. The exams will consist of multiple-choice questions.

Research Paper: Write a Position Paper on a current public policy controversy in the United States (e.g., Should private businesses in the US have the right to deny service based on their religious beliefs and practices?; Should marijuana be legalized in the US?; Should the United States place strict limitations on immigration, whether legal or illegal?; What should US policy be in regard China and Taiwan?; Or Russia and Ukraine?; Should Medicare be expanded to all US citizens?; Should the US adopt the "Green New Deal?"; Should Congress pass the "John Lewis Voting Rights Act?"; etc.).

Make sure that your paper is on a topic that is national in scope, and not an issue that is specific to one state. The paper can cover an already existing policy or a proposed policy.

Write a paper explaining and describing the policy or proposed policy (what is the law, executive action, administrative regulation, or judicial ruling that has determined or could determine the policy?) Take a position on the policy or proposed policy (in favor or against). Describe the issue that the policy or proposed policy deals with? Explain in detail. What are the controversies regarding the policy? Explain in detail.

Conduct research on the topic, citing at least three sources from credible and reliable publications, web sites, journals, books, etc. Formulate an argument based on evidence in defense of the position you are taking. Also, respond to the most common objections to this position.

Explain how this position impacts the issues of personal responsibility and social responsibility.

The paper should be 1000 words (approximately 5 pages), double-spaced, with one-inch margins, and a 12-point font. Use a standard style for references, citations, and the list of sources (e.g., MLA, Chicago, or APA).

Determination of Grade

Unit Exams— 40% (10% each) toward final grade.
Discussions— 20% (5% each) toward final grade.
Papers— 20% (5% each) toward final grade.
Research Paper— 20% toward final grade.

Grading Timeframe: I will grade exams and papers on the Monday after each due date, and grades will appear in Gradebook during that week. Discussion grades will not appear until after the final closing due date for each discussion. Your grade will be based on the totality of your initial response posts and your two comments.

A 100-90
B 89-80
C 79-70
D 69-60
F 59-0

Late Work, Make-Up, and Extra Credit Policy: Late and make-up work will be accepted on a case-by-case basis. Students need to notify the instructor via email of any problems in this regard. Extra Credit assignments will be offered toward the end of the semester. Keep abreast of posted announcements.

Attendance Policy: Frequent attendance is required. In a sixteen-week online course, this means you should log into D2L Brightspace at a minimum of five times a week. Please keep abreast of posted announcements.

You should expect to spend at least three hours a week in D2L Brightspace reviewing notes and videos, completing unit discussions and exams, and completing other course materials.

Much of the reading and studying can be done outside of D2L Brightspace. Each Unit is self-paced. Students can complete the assigned work at their own most convenient time, but they must remain mindful of the course outline and due dates.

Communicating with your instructor: All communication with the instructor must be through your COM email. Please use the D2L Brightspace email tool to contact the instructor. Due to FERPA restrictions, faculty cannot share any information about performance in the class through other electronic means. Log onto class regularly to keep abreast of posted announcements.

Academic Dishonesty: Any incident of academic policy will be dealt with in accordance with college policy and the Student Handbook. Academic dishonesty, such as cheating on exams, is an extremely serious offense and will result in a grade of zero on that exam and the student will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for the appropriate discipline action.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is using someone else's words or ideas without giving proper citation. It includes paraphrasing someone else's words, copying directly from a website and pasting it into a written assignment, and using someone else's words without quotation marks. Any written assignment containing any plagiarized material will receive a grade of zero and the student will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct for the appropriate discipline action.

Student Concerns: If you have any questions or concerns about any aspect of this course, please contact me using the contact information previously provided. If, after discussing your concern with me, you continue to have questions, please contact Department Chair, Shinya Wakao at 409-933-8212 or swakao@com.edu.

Institutional Policies and Guidelines

Grade Appeal Process: Concerns about the accuracy of grades should first be discussed with the instructor. A request for a change of grade is a formal request and must be made within six months of the grade assignment. Directions for filing an appeal can be found in the student handbook.

https://build.com.edu/uploads/sitecontent/files/student-services/Student_Handbook_2019-2020v5.pdf. An appeal will not be considered because of general dissatisfaction with a grade, penalty, or outcome of a course. Disagreement with the instructor's professional judgment of the quality of the student's work and performance is also not an admissible basis for a grade appeal. https://build.com.edu/uploads/sitecontent/files/student-services/Student_Handbook_2019-2020v5.pdf

Academic Success & Support Services: College of the Mainland is committed to providing students the necessary support and tools for success in their college career. Support is offered through our Tutoring Services, Library, Counseling, and through Student Services. Please discuss any concerns with your faculty or an advisor.

ADA Statement: Any student with a documented disability needing academic accommodations is requested to contact Michelle Brezina at 409-933-8124 or mvaldes1@com.edu. The Office of Services for Students with Disabilities is located in the Student Success Center.

Textbook Purchasing Statement: A student attending College of the Mainland is not under any obligation to purchase a textbook from the college-affiliated bookstore. The same textbook may also be available from an independent retailer, including an online retailer.

Withdrawal Policy: Students may withdraw from this course for any reason prior to the last eligible day for a "W" grade. Before withdrawing students should speak with the instructor and consult an advisor. Students are only permitted to withdraw six times during their college career according to state law. The last day to withdraw is November 18.

FN Grading: The FN grade is issued in cases of failure due to a lack of attendance, as determined by the instructor. The FN grade may be issued for cases in which the student ceases or fails to attend class, submit assignments, or participate in required capacities, and for which the student has failed to withdraw. The issuing of the FN grade is at the discretion of the instructor.

Early Alert Program: The Student Success Center at College of the Mainland has implemented an Early Alert Program because student success and retention are very important for us. Students will be referred to the program throughout the semester if they are having difficulty completing assignments or have poor attendance. If a student is referred to the Early Alert Program he or she will be contacted by someone in the Student Success Center. Someone from the Counseling Department will schedule a meeting with the student to see what assistance can be offered in order to meet academic goals.
