You should aim to earn at least 700 points (70%, C) by the end of the course. You are responsible for completing all assignments according to the instructions. Ask for help in a timely manner if you need it. If you do the minimum work for assignments, expect to receive the minimum grade.

Course Grade Breakdown

■ Class Discussion Participation ■ Quizzes ■ Application Assignments ■ Exam ■ Research Project

HOW TO CALCULATE YOUR GRADE: (Points Earned / Points Possible) X 10

Example: You have earned 180 out of 200 possible points so far in the class. You would calculate your current numeric grade by dividing 180 by 200 and then multiplying the result by 100:

$180/200 = 0.9 \times 100 = 90 \rightarrow$ Your current numeric grade would be 90%

- Class Discussion Participation: Students are expected to attend class on time and actively participate in discussions and activities. Consistent participation in class discussions means that students contribute meaningfully to discussions at least one time every class. There are only 10 class days of lecture and discussion; for each class in which students do not contribute to discussions, 25 points will be deducted (absenteeism may be excused according to the instructor's discretion, see next page).
- Quizzes (7): Each quiz consists of 35 multiple-choice questions. Quizzes require students to read from the textbook or use other materials provided, as they are to be completed before a topic is discussed in class or pertain to topics that are not covered in class. Students have two attempts to complete each quiz. There is no time limit. You may save your work and return to the quiz later. You are encouraged to use the textbook, notes, and other learning materials.
- Application Assignments (8): Application assignments require students to apply what has been learned to real-world/hypothetical scenarios and make the material relevant to their own lives. The assignments will vary in nature. Full instructions are available on D2L.
- Final Exam: The Final Exam assesses your mastery over the most important topics covered in the course. The exam will consist of 50 multiple-choice questions (worth 2 points each) and 3 short answer questions (worth 10 points each) to be completed in class (see the course schedule). Students will have the full class period (80 minutes) to complete the exam. Students will be given a review template to complete for extra credit.
- Research Project: Students will prepare and give a presentation (see the course schedule). Full instructions are available on D2L and will be discussed in class.

Course Policies

Assignment Submission Policy: Assignments are due by 11:59 PM on the specified deadline (see the course schedule) unless explicitly stated otherwise. Assignments must be submitted as .pdf, .doc/.docx, or .jpeg formats to be accepted. Assignments submitted incorrectly may receive a 0 or late penalty. It is good practice to double-check after submitting an assignment (resubmit the correct document right away if needed, you can make multiple submissions for assignments). It is ultimately your responsibility to submit work in the proper format on time.

Late Work Policy & Extra Credit: Assignments submitted after the deadline will receive a 10% deduction per day late (e.g., 3.5 points will be deducted each day for a late application assignment). Assignments will become an automatic zero at the point of 10 or more days late. Technological issues are not an acceptable excuse for a late assignment. If for any reason the college closes, continue to work on the assignments as instructed in your syllabus and on D2L. Missed exams will result in a zero and cannot be made up. In the event of illness or emergency, late work may be accepted without penalty at the discretion of the instructor if students contact the instructor ASAP, preferably before the deadline or exam date. Late work will NOT be accepted after October 7th – no exceptions. Extra credit opportunities are available on D2L. Please note that the instructor will not round up final grades for students who do not complete any of the extra credit.

Attendance & Class Participation: Regular attendance and active participation are critical to being successful in this course and account for 25% of your final grade. Class time is limited and essential. Tardiness disrupts your learning and the learning of your classmates; thus, excessive tardiness may result in referral to the Dean of Students. If you miss class, you are responsible for checking the syllabus and studying the learning materials online, borrowing notes, or visiting office hours to learn the content. Class participation deductions may be forgiven at the instructor's discretion in the event of illness or emergency (contact the instructor as soon as possible).

Conduct: It is expected that all members of the class will treat each other with mutual respect. Students demonstrate respect to their instructor and peers by arriving on time, staying for the duration of class, participating in class discussions and activities, and listening attentively while others are speaking. The instructor will demonstrate respect to students by arriving on time, being prepared with quality learning materials and activities, and listening attentively while students are speaking. Class discussions may include sensitive topics. It is ok to disagree with others, but it is not ok to verbally attack another person.

Communicating With Your Instructor: ALL electronic communication with the instructor must be through your COM email. Due to FERPA restrictions, faculty cannot share information about performance in the class through other electronic means. Students are expected to check their COM email and D2L course page regularly. Communicate with your instructor in a timely manner so that your instructor can best help you. Your instructor should respond within 24-48 business hours.

Academic Dishonesty: Plagiarism includes, but is not limited to, deliberately copying word-for-word another person's work without proper quotation and attribution (direct plagiarism), submitting your own work from another class (self-plagiarism), and failing to correctly cite sources or unintentionally using the same groups of words as another source without proper quotation and attribution (accidental plagiarism). Academic dishonesty also includes the unauthorized use or attempted use of off-limits material, information, devices/technology (e.g., Artificial Intelligence, see below), or help from others during an exam. Any form of academic dishonesty may result in a reduction of points (up to a zero with no opportunity to make up the grade) at the discretion of the instructor. Additionally, an academic dishonesty report may be filed and the student may be referred to the Dean of Students for misconduct.

Artificial Intelligence (AI) Policy: Students who use any AI software such as ChatGPT, Claude, Grammarly, Quillbot, Midjourney, or Walter Writes AI Humanizer to compose assignments partially or fully will face disciplinary action. The material generated by these programs may be inaccurate, incomplete, or otherwise problematic. Beware that use may also stifle your own independent thinking and creativity.

Every submission should be an original composition that the students themselves wholly created for this course unless your instructor specifically states that you may use it in a brainstorming manner on a particular assignment; in which case your instructor may want you to cite what has been generated with AI. With the exception noted above, students are not allowed to use any alternative generation tool for any type of submission in this course.

Faculty reserve the right to use AI detection software, compare present to past work, or require verbal explanation of your work to find instances of AI-generated writing in student submissions. The findings are binding and can be subject to student code of conduct, academic dishonesty, and plagiarism policies in the course. You will receive a grade of zero on your assignment, will be reported to the Dean of Students, and can ultimately fail the course. Reach out to your instructor, peer or tutoring center if you are having difficulties with assignments.

Student Concerns: If you have questions or concerns about any aspect of this course, contact the instructor (kobrien4@com.edu). If, after discussing your concern with the instructor, you continue to have questions, contact Department Chair, Shinya Wakao at 409-933-8107 or swakao@com.edu.

Institutional Policies and Guidelines

Grade Appeal Process: Concerns about the accuracy of grades should first be discussed directly with the instructor. A request for a change of grade is a formal request and must be made within six months of the grade assignment. Directions for filing an appeal can be found in the student handbook <https://www.com.edu/student-services/student-handbook.html>

An appeal will not be considered because of general dissatisfaction with a grade, penalty, or outcome of a course. Disagreement with the instructor's professional judgment of the quality of the student's work and performance is also not an admissible basis for a grade appeal.

Honors Contracts are special projects that extend the work we do in class. They are for ambitious students who wish to deepen their knowledge and experiences of the practices and ideas related to this class. They require students to earn at least a B in class and approval from the instructor since Honors Contracts require that students and faculty work closely together in a mentoring relationship. The student and instructor will collaborate to determine what kind of work/project the student will need to complete to earn honors credit; students are encouraged to be creative and pursue topics of personal interest. Honors Contracts are a great way to seek additional academic or research experience and to boost your resume for future jobs or qualifications for graduate school programs. Please speak with me if you are interested or have questions and visit the site for more information: <https://www.com.edu/honorsprogram/>.
