Course requirements:

Exams: There will be four exams during the semester with a value of 100 points each, 70 points for a Multiple-Choice portion, 30 points for the Essay portion. Exam material will be drawn from quizzes, assigned readings, blackboard assignments and all class activities Students should pay particular attention to terms in the study guides, which will be distributed prior to each exam. Each exam may consist of multiple-choice questions, short answer, and map questions. Core Objective:
Critical Thinking 2

Assessment Quizzes: In addition to the four exams, there will be 10 quizzes in Blackboard to assess your progress between major exams. Quizzes will count for a total of 100 points (10 points for each quiz). Like exams, quizzes cannot be made up. Missed quizzes receive a grade of zero. Quizzes address the following Core Objective: Critical Thinking.

Students must respond to at least two other posters for full credit. Each discussion board post is worth 20 points. Please review the discussion board etiquette in Blackboard.

Movie Critique: I have a list of suggested movies in Blackboard. Choose a film appropriate for our class. After watching the movie, you will write a two-page typed paper about the film. You will address the question of how this movie/documentary fits into the class discussions we have had. Is this an accurate representation of what we have been studying? See course schedule for due date. Upload your finished paper to Blackboard.

Overview: History is a craft and writing is the craft of the historian. It is the medium that any historian must use to disseminate interpretations of the past to the public and fellow historians. In many ways the historian is much like a detective; gathering and evaluating evidence, forming hypothesis and drawing conclusions in order to find out who done it. History is not memorizing facts, dates and people; it is how the historian analyzes and interprets information. Film is history, it is a source that can be analyzed and interpreted.

Description: A film analysis is not a review or summary of the plot; it should go deeper into analysis and reaction. It should discuss the issues raised by the film, address the film's importance and purpose, state reactions to the content and quality of the film, and connect it to ideas and material presented in class. IT should be a minimum of 2 pages and include the following (in any order you choose). Please use the approved movie list. If you use a movie not on the list, you must email your instructor for approval. Do not use other sources to analyze the movie, you will use only the movie itself.

Procedure:

- Describe the film in general terms. • What subjects does it cover.
 - Describe the plot and setting
 - What issues does it raise?
 - What do you see as the main purpose of the film?
- What are the major theme(s) of the film? Go into detail describing the themes.

• Evaluate the film for quality and interest. (Give plenty of detail) • Comment on the screenplay, acting, direction, and production values and music.

• Are any literary techniques such as symbolism, character development and foreshadowing used?

• Would a young person be interested in this film?

• Relate the film to class discussions, readings, notes or knowledge. (Give plenty of detail) • Is the film historically (or factually) accurate and realistic?

• Does it contradict or support anything you have learned?

• Summarize briefly emphasizing the strengths and weaknesses of the film.

Requirements:

- Spelling and capitalization need to be correct
- All papers must have a title page, be typed, double spaced with a 12-pt. font
- All pages must have appropriately sized margins.
- All papers must contain information detailed in the procedure section of these guidelines

Research Paper: Each student will write a 3-page research paper over a topic in US History from 1877 to present, this paper should be in a research paper format and NO LESS than 3 pages, a works cited page should be included. Follow MLA formatting guidelines, including citations and a works cited page. Paper must be double spaced Times New Roman font, 12 point. Please review rubric for grading criteria. Before you write your paper, post your topic in the appropriate discussion board. This is to make sure you choose a topic that falls into the scope of this class. If you do not post in the discussion board and get your topic approved, you risk receiving a zero for the paper. You must use at least 3 sources.

Oral Presentations: Each student will create an oral presentation over the topic that you wrote your research paper over. You will not read the paper but give a presentation telling us what you learned about the subject. Students will create an oral presentation in FLIPGRID. Please follow the instructions in Blackboard. 4

Discussion Board:

Students will create an oral presentation and upload a video link to the appropriate Blackboard discussion board.

Please follow instructions on uploading your video. There are instructions videos for linking your video to Blackboard. Please do not upload, please follow the video instructions.

Responsibility Paper: Students will pick a person or movement that fits into the time period of HIST 1302 – U.S. History from 1877 to present. Students will write a two-page typed paper on the Social and Personal Responsibility of the subject. The student must include a section in their paper discussing the social and personal responsibility of the individuals involved. Students will use primary and secondary sources for their paper. You must include a works cited page. Covers:

Critical Thinking, Social Responsibility, Personal Responsibility, Communication

Example: Harriet Tubman's decision to help runaway slaves, what are the consequences of her actions. What personal and social responsibility does she have and how does it influence those around her. (This is an example; your paper must be at least one page long)

Paper format: 12 pt. Times New Roman font, double spaced, 1 page long

Primary Source Assignment: Primary documents are letters, newspapers, laws, or other forms of communication that occurred during the time period being studied. When studying the American Revolution, an example of a primary document would be the Declaration of Independence. Students have multiple choices for appropriate primary documents in each module. Only write a summary on one (1) document per module. Upload your summary where it says TURN IN PRIMARY SOURCE HERE.

I thought it would be beneficial to give you an example of how to write about a primary document. You should give a summary of the primary document. Some of the questions you could answer or include in your answer would be the following: 1. Who wrote the document and when was it written? 2. Who was the intended audience? 3. What was the purpose of the document? 4. What was one of the most important or most important line from the document? The following represents a short student response to the primary document of the Declaration of Independence:

Thomas Jefferson, the primary author of the Declaration of Independence, wrote his draft of this document in 1776. Although the Declaration was for the whole world, Jefferson's main audience was the king of England, George III. Jefferson's purpose was to announce to the world that the 5 thirteen colonies were free and independent from Great Britain and that these thirteen colonies were forming a new country called the United States. The document is divided into different parts: the preamble or introduction, a list of grievances against the king, and a conclusion. Several of these grievances were later addressed in the Constitution and in the Bill of Rights - such as, not allowing soldiers to be quartered in homes without the consent of the homeowner and the right to have a trial by jury. Other notable grievances included Britain's taxation policies with no colonial representation in Parliament. Probably the most memorable line from the Declaration is, "we hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." It is ironic that when Jefferson wrote of liberty, he was a slave holder.

Summaries should be at least one page excluding headings. Format is MLA standard, using Times New Roman 12-point, Double Spaced. You may want to write a longer response depending on the length of the primary document. Each primary document assignment is worth 25 points. The primary documents are located in the link on the left margin under the heading of primary documents. Upload your paper where it says, "Turn in Primary Source." Core Objective: Analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources
