Grade Appeal Process: Concerns about the accuracy of grades should first be discussed with the instructor. A request for a change of grade is a formal request and must be made within six months of the grade assignment. Directions for filing an appeal can be found in the student handbook. <https://build.com.edu/uploads/sitecontent/files/student-services/Student\_Handbook\_2019-2020v5.pdf. An appeal will not be considered because of general dissatisfaction with a grade, penalty, or outcome of a course. Disagreement with the instructor's professional judgment of the quality of the student's work and performance is also not an admissible basis for a grade appeal. https://build.com.edu/uploads/sitecontent/files/student-services/Student\_Handbook\_2019-2020v5.pdf

Grading Rubric and Printing Symbols

Soon you will be receiving your evaluated essay.

I grade using what is known as holistic grading. In other words, I look at the essay as a whole and focus on three primary areas: content, grammar/mechanics/rhetoric, and form, including MLA style.

Content is what you said. It involves how you approached the topic, whether the paper you submitted was on topic, how you supported your arguments, and whether or not the paper's thesis was in control of the writing. This section relates to the prompt provided, and whether or not the paper adhered to the topic and logically developed and supported it.

Grammar, mechanics, and rhetoric refer to how you said it. Was standard written English employed throughout the essay? Did the paper's errors seriously distract the reader from what was being said? Were effective means, such as spell check, employed to alleviate the paper's errors? Was the paper carefully proofread? A detailed list of grammatical and mechanical abbreviations will be discussed later in this document. Remember, the writer should do all the work when writing. The reader should not have to work to figure out what is being said.

Form refers to MLA 8 (2016) style and paper requirements for all essays written in the course, and specific form issues related to each assignment. I strongly encourage you to review the paper requirements handout. It does say paper requirements, not paper suggestions. Errors with the heading, header, title, margins, Works Cited, and internal citations all fall under this category.

If you have any questions about comments made on your paper, please see me during my scheduled office hours, and I will be happy to review your writing with you and give you additional feedback about how to improve for the next paper. I request that you wait 24 hours before contacting me to allow yourself time to read ALL the comments made.

Please visit the Tutoring Center for additional help with your writing assignments.

I will also suggest that you utilize COM's Tutoring Center, especially if you have serious grammatical and mechanical issues. I understand that getting back that first paper can be a traumatic experience—remember that I was seated on the other side of the desk at one time—and I make every effort to make my directions clear, and my comments specific. Hopefully, you will see this first writing sample as a learning experience and will not make the same mistakes in the subsequent writing samples.

Remember that this is a diagnostic writing sample, and even though it is not graded, it provides valuable feedback and acts as the springboard for the Grammar Oral Presentation, which is a graded assignment.

As a final note, please review the student learner outcomes, both primary and secondary, found on your course syllabus. Before you can receive a passing grade in the course, you must demonstrate that you have achieved these outcomes. Part of that demonstration comes in the form of the essays and research paper that you complete in the course.
