Required Textbook: No textbook will be required for this course. Books and magazines in an extensive ceramics/sculpture office library will be available as a resource during class and office hours. For this class you will keep a sketchbook that gathers the written and verbal information given in class as well as your drawings and research to develop ideas for each for each assignment. Please use a 3 ringed binder for your sketchbook. You can organize your sketchbook more easily with that format. Your sketchbook should be clearly organized and grouped by projects. If you submit a sketchbook in which the pages are loose and unorganized it will not be graded. You should think of your sketchbook as a textbook you write for the course and needs to be complete to satisfy the 10% it counts towards your grade.

Course Description: A further study of ceramics processes through the investigation of materials and techniques building on what was introduced in Ceramics 1. The course focuses on hand building, the potter's wheel, mold making and glazing and firing procedures. Health, safety, and environmental concerns related to the arts will also be addressed.

Course Requirements:

Students must be prepared, attend class, and fully participate in not only the fabrication of personal works but be part of the active dialogue between their peers and professor. Students will do research and idea development for each assignment. Class participants will also discuss their works and the works of others using the objectives given for each project.

Determination of Course Grade/Detailed Grading Formula:

Assessment	Points Each	Total Point Value
Handbuilding Assignments 1,2	20	40
Thrown Works 1, 2, 3	10	30
Glazing of Thrown Works	20	20
Sketchbook	10	10
TOTAL		100

Late Work: Late work WILL NOT be accepted or graded. Work may be turned in early.

Make-Up Work: Make-up work is generally not permitted but will be discussed on as needed basis.

Extra Credit Projects: An extra credit may be given during the semester.

Attendance Policy: Students are expected to attend and participate in class discussions. Students that do not attend class on a regular basis will not do well in this class. You will lose 2.5 points per absence. Two arriving late or leaving early will equal one absence.

Communicating with your instructor: ALL electronic communication with the instructor must be through your COM email. Due to FERPA restrictions, faculty cannot share any information about performance in the class through other electronic means. Faculty may add additional statement requiring monitoring and communication expectations via D2L or other LMS.
